

John 21 EvaluaTion
Teams MeeTiNg – 9/28/14

When we see through regular contact with the poor that those with so much less than we have laugh, sing, dance, celebrate, and hope more than we are able to despite all our gifts, a new gratitude and joy can take root in us. This too can overflow in communion inside the family, in intimacy, in a willingness to sacrifice time and resources for others that is born of the same knowledge that our lives are very good....

Julie Hanlon Rubio, "Christian Families in Care for the Poor," C21 Resources, Fall 2014

In What way has your faith been nourished through John 21?

What's surprised you?

What's going well? What do see as the strengths of the ministry? What aspects of the program are definitely worth keeping?

What have we learned? (Lessons Learned)

Where is there room for improvement?

You have established significant relationships with individuals. What do you need from the parish to maintain and nurture those relationships? Are you worried about any of those relationships?

On another note completely, How are you feeling about your level of commitment?

Do you think we have the volunteer capacity to maintain the same level of service from week-to-week?